Some of our team that loaded the first train

First coal train departs Maxwell Underground Mine.

Malabar is pleased to announce the significant milestone that our first coal train departed the Maxwell Underground Mine on 21 June 2023 and discharged at the Port of Newcastle that day.

We acknowledge and thank our employees, and a long list of contractors, suppliers, customers, shareholders, financiers, and government departments for assisting us along the pathway from project approval, financing, construction and now operations.

In particular we thank our local community for their long-term support.

We look forward to the ramp up of production over the next 2 years as we fully develop the underground operations at the Maxwell Mine.
